FACULTY

The professors who teach at the China Studies Program are among the leading minds in their fields and enjoy outstanding reputations in China and beyond. The entire faculty holds PhD degrees, and many have spent years abroad and thus master the art of looking at China through combined perspectives, both from the outside and from within. It is common for our professors to serve as policy advisers to the government, and as consultants to think tanks, and to leading research institutions and organizations.

CHEN Chunsong Assistant Professor

Ph.D., Kyoto University

Research Interest:

National Security; Asia-Pacific International Relations; Chinese Foreign Policy

CHENG Xiaohe Professor

Ph.D., Boston University

Research Interest:

China's foreign relations in general and China's relations with neighboring countries in particular

CUI Shoujun Professor

Ph.D., China Foreign Affairs University

Research Interest:

China's Diplomacy; Energy Geopolitics; China's Relations with Developing Countries (Middle East and Latin America in particular); International Organizations

DIAO Daming Professor

Ph.D., Nankai University

Research Interest:

American Government and Politics; Comparative Politics; China-US Relationship

GUI Xiaoshu — Assistant Professor

Ph.D., Duke University

Research Interest:

Comparative Politics; Chinese Politics; Political Methodology (including Applied Statistics, Econometrics, etc.) with a special focus on Bureaucratic Politics; Environmental Governance; and Information Governance

HAN Donglin — Professor

Ph.D., The Hong Kong University of Science and Technology

Research Interest:

Comparative Politics; Political Attitudes; Quantitative Research Methods

HUANG Chen — Associate Professor

Ph.D., Renmin University of China

Research Interest:

Contemporary Chinese Thoughts & Culture (in a Power-Knowledge Perspective); Political History (Especially the State-Building in Ancient and Modern China)

HUANG Yuxing — Professor

Ph.D., Boston College

Research Interest:

currently working on two related research projects: one seeks to explain various sources of (mis-)perceptions in power transitions, and the other seeks to explain sources of regional/world order changes.

JIN Canrong — Professor

Ph.D., Peking University

Research Interest:

American Politics (US Congress in particular); American Foreign Policy; China-US relations and China's Foreign Policy

JI Xianbai — Assistant Professor

Ph.D., Nanyang Technological University

Research Interest:

Global Economic Governance; Regionalism and Multilateralism; Geo-economics; Southeast Asian Affairs

JIN Xi — Associate Professor

Ph.D., Leiden University

Research Interest:

European Studies; Regionalism and Regional Integration; Feminist International Relations; Visualizing International Relations

JIN Xiaowen — Associate Professor

Ph.D., Peking University

Research Interest:

Latin America Politics; Sino-Latin American Relations; International Migration

LIAN Chenchao — Assistant Professor

Ph.D., University of Oxford

Research Interest:

Chinese Politics and Foreign Policy; Global Governance;Maritime Affairs; China-European Relations

LI Chen — Associate Professor

Ph.D., University of Cambridge

Research Interest:

Modern Military and Strategic History; International History; Contemporary Military Strategy; China-U.S. Military Security Relations

LI Xiafei — Associate Professor

Ph.D., University of Cambridge

Research Interest:

Southeast Asia Studies; Migration Studies; Culture Studies

LIANG Xuecun — Associate Professor

Ph.D., the Chinese University of Hong Kong

Research Interest:

Nationalism; Modern State; World Order; International Political Theory

Lawrence C Lin Associate Professor

Ph.D., Renmin University of China

Research Interest:

Industrial Economy; Economic Diplomacy; High Tech; International Relations. Prof Lin also has extensive working experiences in telecommunication, semiconductor and venture capital investment industry.

LIU Lina Assistant Professor

Ph.D., ETH Zurich

Research Interest:

Global Development Governance; Economic Security; Chinese Diplomacy

LIU Luxin Assistant Professor

Ph.D., Heidelberg University

Research Interest:

International Political Economy; U.S. Political Economy; U.S. Political Development

LIU Xinguang Associate Professor

Ph.D., Peking University

Research Interest:

Chinese History; Historical Geography of China, especially in City; Region and Transportation, etc.

LIU Xu Assistant Professor

Ph.D., Hokkaido University

Research Interest:

Transition Economics; International Energy Cooperation; Russian Economic Policy

LU Jie Professor

Ph.D., Duke University

Research Interest:

Chinese Politics; Political Behavior & Psychology; Political Economy of Institutions and Institutional Change; East Asian Politics; Political Methodology

SONG Wei — Professor

Ph.D., Peking University and Waseda University

Research Interest:

International Relations Theory; International Organization; Regional Cooperation; Indo-Pacific Regional Studies

WANG Yiwei — Professor

Ph.D., Fudan University

Research Interest:

BRI Studies; European Studies; Public Diplomacy; Chinese Foreign Affairs

WANG Zhaodong — Associate Professor

Ph.D., University of Edinburgh

Research Interest:

History of International Relations; History of Chinese Diplomacy; Security Studies; Territorial and Maritime Disputes; Sino-Indian Border Disputes; South Asian Studies; China-South Asia Relations; India's Foreign Policy

WANG Hongyu — Professor

Ph.D., Vrije Universiteit Brussel

Research Interest:

Chinese Foreign Economic Policy; EU Politics and Foreign Policy; China-EU Economic Relations; International Economic Relations

WU Di — Assistant Professor

Ph.D., University of Oxford

Research Interest:

War and the History of World Politics; Military Diplomacy; Transatlantic Security Relations; National Security Assessments

WU Xian — Assistant Professor

Ph.D., Tsinghua University

Research Interest:

China-US Relations; Economic Sanctions; Risk Politics; Foreign Investment Screening; Minilateralism

XIE Guihua — Professor

Ph.D., Johns Hopkins University

Research Interest:

Migration and Social Stratification in China

XU Yanran — Associate Professor

Ph.D., University of Miami

Research Interest:

International Relations Theory; Foreign Policy Analysis; Latin American Economy and Politics; Energy Studies; Sino-Latin American Relations

XU Ying — Associate Professor

Ph.D., Renmin University of China

Research Interest:

IOs (INGOs); Diplomacy of China; European Studies

XU Zhengyuan — Associate Professor

Ph.D., Renmin University of China and Aichi University

Research Interest:

Contemporary Chinese Diplomatic Strategy; China's Path to Peaceful Development; China's Great Power Relations; China and International Mechanisms

ZHANG Yang — Assistant Professor

Ph.D., The University of Iowa

Research Interest:

Computational Social Science; Political Networks; Public Opinion

ZHANG Yunhan — Assistant Professor

Ph.D., Ghent University

Research Interest:

Global Governance; Energy and Climate Politics

ZHONG Yichen — Assistant Professor

Ph.D., Aston University

Research Interest:

European Politics; European Union Decision-making; Justice and Home Affairs; China-EU Relations

ZHU Xiaoqi — Associate Professor

Ph.D., Peking University and Waseda University

Research Interest:

Maritime Power Ideology and Maritime Power Theory; Japanese Politics and Diplomacy; China-Japanese Relations; Asia-Pacific Security